

Data Fabric

Scalable, Seamless, Reliable Integrations

What is Data Fabric?

Data Fabric is an Epicor solution supplying a fast, reliable, and scalable means of integrating Epicor to Epicor products, independent of their product technology. It is the “magic” behind upcoming integrations, enabling enterprise agility and data sharing.

Important Information

Epicor is an industry leader in technology for makers, movers and sellers. Our solutions are built with hands-on knowledge of each customer industry. With our new Data Fabric solution, using Confluent, which is a well-recognized provider of the foundational services, we will have a seamless integration to set data in motion.

Data Fabric is built by Epicor and powered internally by Apache Kafka, built on a highly scalable cloud-native architecture, and hosted as part of the Confluent Cloud in Microsoft® Azure.

The foundation is event streaming using an asynchronous push approach.

- An event occurs which generates a message to an Outbox

- The message is delivered to the destination Inbox
- Destination systems apply the events to their own database

Key Questions

Can Data Fabric be customized?

The first release will support the integration points created by the product teams. Customization is under consideration for a future release.

Is there a cost for Data Fabric?

Data Fabric will be available to Epicor customers. There may be some scenarios that could incur an additional cost. More information will be available prior to General Availability.

Are all products using Data Fabric?

No. Additional information will be available at a future date as integrations become available.

Availability:

Data Fabric will be available for public cloud and on-premise customers.
